THE COVER shows a photograph of a sealskin stencil, "The Archer," an admirable work by the Eskimo artist, Niviaksiak, who died last year after completing the original. The return of geese to their homes in the North symbolizes the coming of spring and summer.

CBC Radio 'Down North'

"Sumer is icumen in . . . ," and we hope our shortwave service is coming in loud and clear too.

This is the second program guide we have put out since the service began last September, and in future there'll be two a year listing our summer and winter fare.

Regular listeners will notice some changes in our broadcasting schedule, although News every hour on the hour remains the basis of our programming.

To those on the 'outside' who will be travelling and working in the North this season, we suggest that a shortwave receiver is a good companion to take along with you.

Through our daily broadcasts, we aim to bring you the best available from the CBC networks, subject to the rigours of shortwave broadcasting and the time of day. In addition, a number of programs are specially prepared for the northern listener.

We broadcast in English and French, but if you have an ear for it, there are programs in Eskimo too.

We would like to remind summer visitors that in addition to our shortwave service, there are now thirteen CBC standard-band stations on the air across the North providing a national and community service. These stations range from Dawson City in the West to Goose Bay in the East.

Last but not least, we are always delighted to hear from listeners to these CBC broadcasts. Please write us at P.O. Box 806, Ottawa, Ontario.

Le Service du Grand Nord de Radio-Canada

Chaque jour de 5:30 à 5:45 p.m., HNE, les auditeurs français qui habitent le nord du Québec et autres régions du nord-est canadien, sont invités d'être à l'écoute pour les émissions irradiées sur ondes courtes par l'entremise du Service du Nord de Radio-Canada. Veuillez consulter la cédule publiée dans ce guide pour les fréquences et l'horaire des émissions. Nous invitons les auditeurs à nous écrire a/s du Service du Nord de Radio-Canada, Case Postale 806, Ottawa.
